Councillor calls for referendum on rapid transit

'What's the harm?'

Coun. Fielding believes money better spent on fixing roads, but wants citizens to make call

BERNICE

A city councillor and possible mayoral candidate said it makes "good common sense" to put the $600-million second phase of rapid transit and Jubilee underpass project to a referendum.

Coun. Scott Fielding (St. James-Brooklands) said Winnipeggers have the right to decide whether that much "cold, hard, liquid cash" should be spent on public transit or on fixing the city's roads and other infrastructure.

"I don't think it's unreasonable to let the people have a say, to make sure it is a priority," he said.

"My personal preference is if we're going to invest $600 million in infrastructure that we should fix existing infrastructure, needed road improvements first."

Fielding said the question could "easily" be added to the ballot during next year's civic election.

"What's the harm in asking people?" said Fielding, adding that he's not proposing holding votes on all projects.

Mayor Sam Katz said Fielding, like many councillors, is simply "throwing out numbers" on rapid transit, clarifying that the $600 million also includes the Jubilee underpass reconstruction and Calrossie land drainage projects.

"I believe the referendum that you have is when council makes the decision," Katz said following Thursday's $1.75-million active transportation announcement.

"Coun. Fielding has been against rapid transit from Day 1, there's nothing new about that.... I accept and respect his opinion; that doesn't mean we all agree."

Coun. Justin Swandel, who replaced Fielding on the executive policy committee, said Fielding's referendum move was a "political stunt."

"He's going to say what he's going to say," Fielding responded, adding that his goal is to give citizens a say.

On next year's mayoral race, Fielding said he'll make a decision soon on whether to throw his hat in the ring, but likely won't announce it until "well into the new year."

Swandel not sorry for potty mouth

Grandstanding?

Won't apologize for 'smelled like crap' quip, says he has no patience for stupidity

BERNICE PONTANILLA
bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

A day after mocking his Winnipeg city council colleagues, Coun. Justin Swandel said he has nothing to apologize for.

"The problem I have is that I've got a very short tolerance, lack of patience for stupidity and there's a great deal of it being spewed there," the St. Norbert councillor said following Thursday's press conference at Dalhousie School.

"I get excited a little bit... When there's grandstanding, I'm not scared to call grandstanding, grandstanding."

One of the most stormy exchanges came when Coun. Paula Havixbeck asked Swandel why he had left an executive policy committee meeting on two occasions when she spoke on the Winnipeg police headquarters cost overruns.

In response, Swandel said he likes it when people "take the bait."

On Thursday, Swandel said it wasn't the first time the word "crap" has been used on the floor of council.

Quoted

"I stepped out to go to the washroom because what I heard smelled like crap, so I wanted to be in a place that actually smelled like crap."

Coun. Justin Swandel, on why he left the room when Coun. Paula Havixbeck was speaking about police HQ cost overruns.

"I didn't realize that was an inappropriate word, but in (speaker Devi Sharma's) judgment I guess it was," said Swandel, adding that he did say sorry to the speaker and "is fine with (having to apologize to the speaker)."

Mayor Sam Katz, who laughed at many of Swandel's comments, said he "very much believes in decorum" and feels Winnipeg's municipal politicians are better-behaved than at the Manitoba legislature and Ottawa's House of Commons.

"But that's neither here nor there. The realities are all members of council should be treated with respect," said Katz.

"There's no need for a wise-crack or those types of comments in my opinion."

BERNICE PONTANILLA/METRO

He's a one-man show

- Right before his "crap" comment to Havixbeck, Swandel pre-empted Coun. Brian Mayes, who wanted to speak in support of a new city program for asphalt-ing gravel back lanes. "It's pretty straightforward, I'm sure he's just trying to get some face time on the issue of granular back lanes," said Swandel.

- After Mayes and Coun. Ross Eadie finished speaking on the new program, Swandel summed up the comments with "Blah, blah, blah, I, me, me, I, me, me."

- Swandel also called councillors critical of the budget a "circle of vultures" and said instead of an audit of the police HQ, there should be an audit of the IQs of city council.

More cash proposed for Active Transportation

Mayor Sam Katz METRO

Let the good news out of the city's upcoming budgets begin.

The City of Winnipeg announced Thursday it is proposing to double the amount of money spent in Active Transportation corridors next year.

That means $1.75 million could be spent on projects like:

- A raised crosswalk in front of Ryerson School.
- A sidewalk on Ryerson Avenue between Ryerson School and Rice Road.
- A sidewalk on Patricia Avenue between Ecole St. Avila School and Kilkenny Drive.

- A sidewalk and/or a multi-use pathway on Kilkenny Drive between Vassar Park and King's Park.

In addition to $1 million spent on projects like the above, another half-million would go to recreational walkways and pathways and $250,000 would go to new regional sidewalks.

The city's capital and operating budgets will be released next Friday.

Shindico. Developer says competition over fire hall bids was fair

The developer awarded the contract to build four Winnipeg fire halls says lots of facts surrounding the deal haven't come to light yet.

Shindico CEO Sandy Shindleman says his company was not shown any favouritism.

An audit released last month said the contract to build the fire halls was split into four that were awarded to Shindico on a "non-competitive basis."

The report also said the project went $3 million over budget and involved a land swap that saw a new station built on property owned by Shindico and not the city.

Shindleman says the project wasn't over budget, there wasn't a land swap and there were seven or eight bidders for the contract.

The audit also said the fire hall project was mismanaged, lacked appropri-

Former fire chief Reid Douglas was let go.

The province of Manitoba announced a partnership with the Montreal-based J.W. McConnell Family Foundation Thursday to create a first-of-its-kind in Canada Early Childhood Development Innovation Fund.

The province and the foundation will each pitch in $500,000 to create the fund, which Premier Greg Selinger said would initially earmark cash for the Winnipeg Boldness Project, which focuses on giving opportunities to low-income children and families in the Point Douglas community.

The fund will be hosted by the United Way of Winnipeg and donations from the public and private sector are welcome.

Pilot's inexperience, weather, contributed to crash: Report

A Keystone Air plane crashed in northern Ontario in January 2012. COURTESY TRANSPORTATION SAFETY BOARD

Keystone Air. Findings released on 2012 North Spirit Lake crash, which left four dead

A Transportation Safety Board investigation has concluded poor weather, ice on the wings and the pilot's inexperience landing in icy conditions contributed to a deadly plane crash near a remote Ontario reserve.

Four people, including the pilot, were killed and a fifth was seriously injured when the Keystone Air plane hit the icy surface of North Spirit Lake in January 2012.

Safety board spokesman Peter Hildebrand said the plane was forced to circle the runway servicing the North Spirit Lake First Nation for almost half an hour while he waited for it to be cleared of snow. As the plane circled, Hildebrand said, ice built up on the wings and tail.

This caused problems when the plane finally began to descend.

"Eventually, the aircraft built up enough ice that during the change in configuration — extending the landing gear and extending the flaps — the drag increased. The lift was no longer sufficient," said Hildebrand, who is regional manager of air investigations. "The aircraft stalled and crashed."

The plane crashed about 1.5 kilometres short of the runway, Hildebrand said.

Residents of the northern Ontario reserve about 400 kilometres north of Dryden, Ont., said there was a blinding snowstorm at the time. Many rushed to the crash sight and tried dousing the flaming wreckage with snow, but couldn't save four people

Fatalities

- Pilot Fariborz Abasabady, 41, died along with Ben van Hoek, 62, president of Aboriginal Strategies Inc.
- Colette Eisinger, 39, an accountant for the company, and Martha Campbell, 38, a band worker for the North Spirit Lake First Nation, were also killed.
- Brian Shead, a 36-year-old employee with Aboriginal Strategies Manitoba, was injured but survived. He would later describe how he tried in vain to unstrap the other passengers from their seats and put out the fire on the wing. He said he managed to pull the pilot out of the cockpit window before collapsing in the snow.

trapped inside.

The pilot, Fariborz Abasabady, had 2,500 hours of flight time, but didn't have experience flying into remote areas in icy weather, Hildebrand said. Abasabady had worked for Keystone for four months. It was his first job as a commercial pilot, Hildebrand said.

The airline, which operates charter flights in Manitoba, has revised its operations manual to clarify what planes are capable of in icy conditions, Hildebrand said. The airline has also followed the board's suggestion to add a second pilot on flights that might run into icy weather in remote areas. THE CANADIAN PRESS

A little snow isn't going to slow down the University of Winnipeg's new rugby team.

In fact even a whole lot of snow won't stop the squad from holding their weekly practices on the school's front lawn this winter, according to the club's president Andrew Curtis.

"We're out there every Wednesday for an hour, it doesn't matter the conditions," Curtis, 21, told Metro this week, explaining the team has so far been unable to get practice time indoors. "We're still working on getting gym time at Duckworth (Centre) ... it's hard because other teams need the gym and because we're just getting off the ground this year, we're kind of bottom of the rung.

"But as long as there's people who want to go out there and have some fun, we'll keep meeting outside."

The scrimmages are attracting around eight players — both men and women — every week, and Curtis, who's been playing the sport since high school, is finding himself taking on the role of a teacher, showing those new to rugby the ins and outs of the game that he says is gaining popularity in Canada.

"It's huge — there was just games in Toronto — and B.C.'s really the place to be for rugby right now," he explained. "I definitely think it's growing and as long as we keep at it I think the sport's going to get bigger here too."

While the team currently doesn't have a university league to officially compete in yet, Curtis said they'd be squaring off against other teams in exhibition matches whenever they get the chance.

Anyone interested in joining the team can check out the University of Winnipeg Rugby Facebook page or join in on the practices every Wednesday in front of the U of W from 4 to 5 p.m.

Many medical marijuana users feeling outed by Health Canada

Panic mode. Mass mailing identifying recipients as pot smokers has some patients upset

TREVOR GREENWAY
Metro in Ottawa

Tens of thousands of medical marijuana patients across the country are receiving a mass mailing from Health Canada exposing them as medicinal cannabis users, and many are now in panic mode.

The letter, which Health Canada says was sent to 40,000 people, comes in a white envelope, and has a return address with the words "Marihuana Medical Access Program" written across the top, followed by the patient's name and address. Many say their privacy has been violated and fear their houses may be robbed and their home growing gardens targeted.

"I'm outright panicked," said Multiple Sclerosis patient Suzi Berardini, who also suffers from trigeminal neuralgia. She said the mailman who dropped the letter off "smirked" when he handed her the envelope. "It's terrifying. So many levels of terrifying."

Laurie MacEachern, who represents medical marijuana patients as director of the Medicinal Cannabis Patients' Alliance of Canada Inc., said she is "supremely" concerned about the information being released to the public.

"One patient said she got her mail and the delivery man said, 'I didn't know you smoked,'" said MacEachern.

MacEachern said previous letters did not have the word "marijuana" on it.

Almost a dozen other medical marijuana patients called Metro with similar concerns. Most weren't willing to comment on the record for fear of being exposed even further.

Health Canada Deputy Minister George Da Pont said

the format of the mailing was the result of an "administrative error." He said the letters outlining changes to the Mari-

"This is not standard Health Canada practice," he wrote in an email to Metro.

"On behalf of Health Canada, I deeply regret this administrative error. Health Canada is taking steps to ensure this does not happen again. Protection of personal information is of fundamental importance to Health Canada. We are in discussion with the Office of the Privacy Commissioner of Canada."

Political theatre

Ford's future up to T.O. voters, but he shouldn't get my job, says Harper

Prime Minister Stephen Harper is speaking out for the first time on Toronto Mayor Rob Ford — and keeping his tongue planted firmly in his cheek.

Harper jokes that he's heard Ford say publicly he wants to be prime minister, a notion Harper says he clearly can't support.

But when it comes to the Toronto mayor's future, Harper says that's for the voters of that city to decide.

"I've heard Mr. Ford's statements to the effect that he would like to become prime minister of Canada; obviously this is not something I'm in favour of," Harper said. "In terms of his future in Toronto, that is for the residents of Toronto to decide."

Harper says the Conservatives' position is clear: There are strict drugs laws in place, and no one should be buying or using illegal drugs, especially politicians.

Senators rattled by RCMP tale of PMO meddling

Rattled Conservative and Liberal senators say they're trying to come to terms with the RCMP's description of meddling by the Prime Minister's Office in the upper chamber's business.

The 80-page court filing by the Mounties became required reading around the Senate this week. Emails back and forth suggest Stephen Harper's staff and his top senators helped to manipulate a Senate committee and its report into former colleague Mike Duffy's contested living expenses. The group also tried to quash an independent audit commissioned by the Senate.

"I am a strong believer in the independence of the institution and I think it's something we're all going to have to reflect upon in terms of going forward and how that relationship (with elected officials) should be structured," Conservative Sen. Bob Runciman said Thursday.

Liberal senators are also reading the documents with interest, and considering if anything should be done on the floor of the Senate.

"I've read the documents. I find parts of them very disturbing indeed, but beyond that I don't really want to comment," said deputy Liberal Senate leader Joan Fraser.

"It's going to take a little while to work through all of this and figure out what the ultimate implications are."

Court stands by Silvio Berlusconi's conviction

Sex charges. Former PM's conviction, seven year sentence and lifetime political ban explained; proof of intercourse not needed

The Milan court that convicted Silvio Berlusconi of paying an underage prostitute for sex at his infamous Bunga Bunga parties said Thursday that proof of intercourse wasn't necessary to find him guilty.

The court, in a 326-page document supporting the June 24 conviction, seven-year jail sentence and lifetime political ban, said all it needed was evidence that the former premier's "sexual instincts" were stimulated in exchange for payment.

The court noted that the Moroccan teen at the centre of the scandal, Karima el-Mahroug, better known as Ruby, received $3,000 cash every time she attended a party, plus jewellery and a lump sum of 57,000 euros apparently to assist her in starting a business.

The filing of the court's reasoning paves the way for Berlusconi's defence to appeal the verdict and sentence. It also comes just a week before the Senate is expected to vote on whether to expel him on the basis of a tax-fraud conviction that was confirmed this summer by Italy's highest court.

Berlusconi, who has no role in government, has been weakened by the judicial woes as well as his failed attempt to bring down the government last month. In a bid to recoup his past glory, Berlusconi has relaunched the Forza Italia party that catapulted him to power two decades ago. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Greenpeace. Second Canadian granted bail in Russia; but pair not free yet

The two Canadians who were among 30 people arrested in Russia following a Greenpeace protest in the Arctic now have been granted bail.

Greenpeace spokesman Diego Creimer said Thursday that Alexandre Paul of Montreal had won bail, but said that both he and Paul Ruzyski of Port Colborne, Ont., who was granted bail Tuesday, have not yet been released.

Paul's mother, Nicole Paul, released a statement through Greenpeace on Thursday welcoming the news he had been granted bail. "I'm so happy that my son is going to be out of jail soon ... I'm so proud of him ..." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Women freed from 30 years of captivity

Two suspects arrested, three victims rescued.

London police say domestic slavery possible motivation

Three women have been freed after spending 30 years held captive in a home in south London, England, including one woman believed to have spent her entire life in domestic slavery, police announced Thursday.

London's Metropolitan Police spoke about the rescues after two people — a man and a woman, both 67 — were arrested early Thursday on suspicion of forced labour and domestic servitude.

The arrests were part of a slavery investigation launched after one of the captives contacted a charity in October.

Kevin Hyland, of the Metropolitan Police's human trafficking unit, speaks to the media Thursday.
SKY TV/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Those freed on Oct. 25 are a 69-year-old Malaysian woman, a 57-year-old Irish woman and a 30-year-old British woman, police said.

Police would not speculate on any possible motivation, name the suspects' nationalities or say if any of the suspects were a couple.

The revelations raised numerous questions — all still unanswered — about the women's ordeal.

The women — whose names have not been released — are now safe at an undisclosed location in Britain and have been working with severe trauma experts since their rescue, said Kevin Hyland, head of the Metropolitan Police's human trafficking unit.

Hyland said while the women had some "controlled freedom," police were still working to establish what sort of conditions they lived under for the past 30 years.

He said his unit, which deals with many cases of servitude and forced labour, had seen previous cases of people held for up to ten years.

"But we've never seen anything of this magnitude before," he said.

Privacy. LG smart TV collecting viewing habits without consent: Blogger

LG Electronics Inc. said it is investigating a claim that some of its smart TVs send information on home viewing habits back to the company without consent.

The investigation comes after Jason Huntley, a 45-year-old IT consultant in Britain, detailed in his blog how his LG smart TV logged the channels he was watching and sent the data to LG.

He said the company continued to collect which channel he was watching even after he disabled the information collection feature.

"The (LG) server acknowledges the successful receipt of this information back to the TV," he said in an email. The information appeared to be sent to LG unencrypted, he said.

Also collected were the names of files saved in an external USB hard drive plugged

Temp Recalls the Zombie Walk

I think the AmQex protest got so much press because the zombies that the cops handcuffed and dragged away left behind a wicked trail of slime and body parts.

Andy Kimura, the firm's third partner, was looking at YouTube over my shoulder and said, "I must say, Shannon, bodily remains really look great online." Andy was still woozy from jetlag after being quarantined for bird flu at Beijing Airport.

"Mr. Kimura, shouldn't you be showing the Chinese folks around while they measure stuff?"

"Not me. I'm Japanese."

"Genetically maybe."

"But my name certainly is, and the Chinese aren't so hot on Japan."

I said, "Hey, check this out — Sarah from marketing got 15 seconds with the Channel 3 Roving Reporter." To be honest, I've no idea what Sarah said. All I remember is her trademarked casual hair flip as she smiled while behind her lay a left leg covered in red corn syrup and vinyl black flies.

"Poor Sarah," said Andy. "Today's her last day."

Oh God. "Seriously?"

"That's life, Shannon. As we speak our new Chinese owners are measuring the staff lunchroom with a laser level. We are not a company that is in need of a head of marketing."

"Oh Sarah, I barely knew ye. Does she know it yet?"

"After lunch."

"Life sucks."

It was weird having every single surface of the building measured by quiet, methodical people speaking a mystery language. What made it especially odd was how they didn't really seem to notice or interact with the people in the building. It was like they were taking measurements inside a photograph, not a real building. Two guys in the meeting room were assembling a 3D model of the building using data brought in by the measurers.

I found myself missing Mr. Shoeman terribly. I decided to phone him in Beijing, and seeing country code 86 on my desktop phone put me in a better mood. I hoped he hadn't forgotten our plans for the future.

"Hello, Mr. Xu?"

"Hi, hello, yes, whatever — whoever this is, I'm getting a reflexology right now and need to focus my qi energy."

"Mr. Shoeman, it's me, Shannon."

"Ah. Sweetest lily of decadent western imperialism."

"Shoeman, I miss you. When are you coming back?"

"Me so sorry — not understand."

I giggled: "You're still such a dick."

"Hang in there, sweetheart."

"What about our secret plan?"

"Our secret plan goes into operation within a few days."

"You promise?"

"I promise." I hung up the phone and turned around to find Andy Kimura and the two remaining Sarahs. "Secret plan?" said Andy. "So Dan wasn't just being paranoid."

Synopsis

Combatants and sweethearts Katniss Everdeen (Jennifer Lawrence) and Peeta Mellark (Josh Hutcherson) have returned victorious from the 74th Annual Hunger Games. While on a Victory Tour to Panem's various downtrodden districts, revolution is in the air. The people see Katniss as a symbol of freedom, which, of course, doesn't sit well with President Snow (Donald Sutherland), the country's autocratic leader. To quell the revolution he and his head gamesmaker (Philip Seymour Hoffman) devise the trickiest Hunger Games yet, the Quarter Quell that will pit former winners against one another in the battle to the death.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

The Hunger Games: Catching Fire is styled within an inch of its life, but it maintains a gritty edge. CONTRIBUTED

Two is better than one

Catching Fire. The followup to the Hunger Games is a step above the first instalment, with more visual and thematic grit

Richard: Mark, I'm glad I saw the first Hunger Games movie because I'm not sure if I would have a clue as to what was going on if I didn't have that background. I may have been taken in by the beautiful art direction, or Jennifer Lawrence's intense performance, but I don't think I would have been able to connect all the dots. Plot points become more obvious in the second hour, but for non-Hungerites it might be confusing. What did you think?

Mark: I don't think anyone who didn't see the first one would even be interested in seeing the second instalment. So the question becomes: how do they compare? And surprisingly, I kind of prefer the sequel. The issues of state control, of media manipulation, and of income disparity are sharper and less cartoonish here. But more important, the secondary characters are more interesting and better drawn. Some of the contestants are intriguing, like Jeffrey Wright's techno-nerd, and his partner Amanda Plummer, doing her nutso thing. I even liked Elizabeth Banks and Stanley Tucci this time around — the characters seemed more grounded in the story.

RC: I do think this is a better movie than the first instalment. It is set decorated and costumed to within an inch of its life, but nonetheless has a gritty edge. It doesn't feel like a budget big franchise movie and that's a good thing. Visually as well as thematically it has more edge than any of the recent Marvel movies. And it skirts around the thing that upset many people about the first movie — the idea of kids killing kids — by setting the action between former victors ranging in age from in their 20s to in their 70s.

MB: You know what else it skirts around? The killings themselves, many of which happen off-screen, to protect the delicate psyches of our tweener population. But that's OK; this isn't really a film about body count. The only thing that left me queasy was the cliffhanger ending, with a plot twist that will seem arbitrary until we catch the next instalment.

RC: The cliffhanger ending is a bit of a shock after the almost two-and-a-half hour running time, but I felt as though enough had happened to keep me interested for the next one.

MB: And I think the next one may show Woody Harrelson to be the trilogy's most valuable player.

Walt Disney. Looking back at a 90-year legacy for inspiration for the future

An “everything old is new again” theme emerges when looking at the slate of upcoming Disney films.

A titan in Hollywood and one of the largest media conglomerates in the world, the Mouse House is looking back at their rich history in a very interesting way. For instance, Get a Horse, the dazzling new short that plays before Frozen in theatres, is the first original Mickey Mouse theatrical cartoon in almost two decades.

But more than simply being a reintroduction to a beloved character, it's also a deft marriage of old and new techniques that features, through some technical wizardry, the first vocal performance from Walt Disney since the 1960s.

In the live action roster there's the Oscar hopeful Saving Mr. Banks, the story of the making of the classic Mary Poppins, and Tomorrowland, an epic sci-fi saga that was allegedly inspired by the contents of a mysterious box found in the Disney archives.

The 90-year-old company has one eye on the past and the other very much on the future.

“We like to think of our legacy as a springboard to the future and not something that anchors us so you can't move your feet,” says Walt Disney Animation Studios general manager and executive vice-president Andrew Millstein.

“There is a great wealth of characters and visual material, but in its day the best of Disney was innovative and moved with audiences. We should do the same.”

So what should audiences anticipate from Disney in the next few years? Millstein says audiences should, “expect the unexpected.”

“We have to be fiercely original. We have to give audiences things they haven't seen before. We want to surprise audiences. We want our stories to be compelling, the worlds to be great, the technology and the visuals to be stunning. If we do our jobs well, that is what's going to happen.”

Millstein knows what he's talking about. He's been with Disney since 1997, when he started there as a production executive in the studio's motion pictures group. “It makes me feel very proud that I am part of a company that is creating content and films that you know are going to live for a long, long time,” he says. “We're part of the zeitgeist of modern history.”

Coogan on ratings and writing the truth

Philomena opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Philomena. Actor talks about journalism and his MPAA struggles

NED
Metro World News in Hollywood

Steve Coogan has been enjoying near-universal positive reception for Philomena, the true-life tale he co-wrote, produced and stars in with Judi Dench about a woman trying to track down the baby a group of nuns forced her to give up as a teen. But that adulation train hit a snag in the U.S., where the film was initially given an R-rating by the MPAA for two instances of the F-word. We spoke with Coogan just hours after that decision was reversed.

Congratulations on your MPAA victory.

They reversed their decision after we appealed, and I was there as a producer of the film putting the case for reappraising the rating. It was myself and Bert Fields — he's one of the hottest Hollywood lawyers. ... They listened to our arguments and we convinced a two-thirds majority, which is what's required amongst the panel of people who can challenge the original rating.

Has your opinion of journalists changed at all after playing one in this?

My opinion of journalists was never bad. That's a myth put about by some journalists trying to undermine me, and it's kind of a part of a campaign by certain journalists who have an agenda to be reductive about the whole thing and make it that I don't. When actually in fact I love journalists. I admire journalists who plow through a lot of crap to get to the truth. But there are some journalists who are not really interested in the truth. They're just interested in shifting units and getting a pat on the back from their editors who just want to sell units to satisfy proprietors who want to satisfy shareholders, and it's not really anything to do with getting to the truth. Those are the people that I've got an issue with. People who have no ethics, basically.

So, cynics?

I think a lot of people end up being cynical, whereas in their heart they don't want to be cynical but they just wind up being cynical because they've been doing it so long and they're kind of battle-weary, I suppose. So I wanted Martin to have a humanity about him and have his cynicism challenged by this very ordinary — in some ways extraordinary but in other ways quite ordinary — old lady.

I was curious, at this point in your career, how often do people ask you to do impressions and how annoying do you find that? People actually stopped asking me about it for years because I stopped doing them. I started out doing stand-up comedy, where I did lots of impersonations, 25 years ago. But then I moved away from it and then it became that people didn't know I did them. Then I'd start saying, “Hey, I can do some impersonations...” It became a party trick. I much prefer it as a party trick rather than as a career. I mean, I know Kevin Spacey does lots of impersonations but people don't think, “Oh, Kevin Spacey, the famous impressionist.” (laughs)

He does a great Jack Lemmon.

You know what? I don't do a bad Jack Lemmon. I'll have to hear his and try mine.

Frozen thaws battle of the sexes

Frozen opens next Friday. CONTRIBUTED

Female perspective. Male and female co-directors ensured Disney film didn't tread into stereotypes

scene@metronews.ca

The new animated film Frozen features something unique — dueling Disney princesses.

"I think what was really important for this movie was to have the female perspective," says co-director Chris Buck.

"We have two female leads and there are times that as a male director you can go to the stereotype of what a female character might do."

That's where co-director and writer Jennifer Lee came in. "Jen would always take it to a different place," he says.

"She would say, 'Make her real. Make her believable.' So I think that really helped. It was a good balance."

Based on a Danish fairy tale by Hans Christian Andersen, Frozen is the story of two royal sisters, Anna, a spirited adventurer (Kristen Bell) and Elsa, a queen (Idina Menzel) with the awesome power to create ice and snow. Sibling is pitted against sibling when Elsa plunges her kingdom into an endless winter and Anna must act to save her sister and the empire.

"You want to make these movies to last forever but we have to bring ourselves to it," says Buck.

"We have to bring today's sense of entertainment and character to our characters."

"We're huge Disney fans and I grew up with Disney," says Lee.

"When you watch a Disney film you are constantly feeling it. It is a combination of comedy and drama but it is together in such a way that you feel you are in the world. That is something we both love more than anything because that, to me, is what makes them timeless and resonate."

"You feel the character and you feel the stakes. You relate to them. I think Disney does that better than anyone."

The feminine touch

"I think what was really important for this movie was to have the female perspective."

Frozen co-director Chris Buck on working with Jennifer Lee on the film

Buck says that one of the big challenges in making Frozen was creating a movie for not "just the Disney family but also for the general audience, for everyone of all ages."

"I feel more than anything, a responsibility not to necessarily the company but to the audience," says Buck.

"To the audience who comes in expecting a Disney movie and giving them the best of that. What does that mean to them? It's humour and emotion and beauty and all of that. For me, that's the pressure."

"I was speaking to a live action director who does more movies in the PG-13 and R-rated realm and he said, 'What you guys do is the hardest thing in the world because you try and reach everyone.'"

Comedy

Delivery Man

Director. Ken Scott

Stars. Vince Vaughn, Chris Pratt, Cobie Smulders

Vince Vaughn stars in this almost shot-for-shot remake of the French Canadian film Starbuck as a man-child who learns commitment and responsibility after discovering his sperm bank donations unwittingly made him the father of 533 children, 142 of whom have filed a class action lawsuit to learn their biological father's real identity. Supporting actors Chris Pratt, Cobie Smulders and Bobby Moynihan are all solid, but it's Vaughn who carries the movie. He hands in a charming performance with all the rough edges buffed away in an unabashedly sweet movie. RICHARD CROUSE

Drama

Dallas Buyers Club

Director. Jean-Marc Vallée

Stars. Matthew McConaughey, Jared Leto

Matthew McConaughey plays Ronnie Woodruff, a Texan oil rig electrician diagnosed with HIV. His search for a cure leads to a non-FDA approved holistic approach and with the help of cross-dresser Rayon (Jared Leto), he establishes the Dallas Buyers Club where customers pay $400 monthly in return for unlimited access to Woodruff's stash of illegal but effective concoctions. At the core are dual powerhouse performances from McConaughey and Leto.

DiCaprio opens wallet for tigers

Leonardo DiCaprio wants to help the tiger population of Nepal. His Leonardo DiCaprio Foundation has awarded $3 million in grants to the World Wildlife Fund (WWF) to work with the Nepal government on protecting the animals. In a statement Wednesday, the actor and activist said he's "hopeful" the money will help "exceed the goal" of doubling the tiger population that exists in Nepal now. The money will help build up anti-poaching patrols and protect and restore areas for them to breed and expand.

The Clash are calling again on a Sound System near you

Q&A. Two of the band's surviving members Mick Jones and Paul Simonon talk about Strummer, the what ifs

Ah, the boom box. The portable stereo brings back memories of a specific time in music, when some of the sounds blaring from the speakers included the stew of punk rock, reggae and early hip-hop cooked up by the Clash.

Bass player Paul Simonon designed the group's new box set to look like a boom box. Lift up the cover and you'll find the complete recorded output of the classic Clash lineup — the late Joe Strummer, Mick Jones, Simonon and Topper Headon — with outtakes, videos, fanzines, stickers, a poster and more. The survivors worked a few years to get back control of their music, remaster it and restore the original artwork.

The Clash were leaders of London's punk rock class of 1977, made one of rock's most enduring albums in London Calling and soaked up the sounds of the street in hits like Train in Vain and Rock the Casbah. Jones and Headon were fired in 1982 and although replacements were added and another album, Cut the Crap, released in 1985, that final chapter is ignored in the Sound System box.

The balding Jones now looks like a kindly British professor as he sits down to talk about the project. Simonon, who always looked better than he played, is impeccably tailored.

They confide a few myth-puncturing details in an interview with The Associated Press earlier this fall: "The Only Band That Matters" declaration was record company hype that they detested, and the band poked fun at their political crusader image in the song Know Your Rights — only people took them too seriously to notice.

Before the Clash, Jones went to art school, not to learn how to draw, but to meet other musicians. He took a grant given to buy art supplies and bought an amp instead. It proved to be a good investment.

Were the Clash destined to burn bright and burn out fast?

Simonon: We didn't know it at the time, but I guess so. When we first started, I was surprised that we got through the end of the week, really. Jones: Nothing was guaranteed. I knew that we worked really hard, nearly every day.

Is it a regret that you ended when you did?

Simonon: We were starting to lose track with Earth because fame and success brings you many things that you're not really prepared for or know how to deal with as a human being. When it does happen, it's very easy to get swallowed up and be taken along with it and become a casualty or lose touch with reality. The fact that we fell apart when we did, sacking everybody, in some ways stopped those potential problems.

Paul Simonon at the Black Market Clash pop-up exhibition and store in London, England to mark the release of the group's remastered collected works Sound System box set in London INVISION/AP

Did you make your peace with Joe Strummer before he died (in 2002)?

Jones: It was well before he died. It was just a few months after I left the group that we became friends again.

Simonon: We appeared in Mick's B.A.D. video for Medicine Show, just to show outwardly that we were friends again.

If he had lived, do you think the Clash would have gotten back together?

Jones: We had opportunities. That's it, really. It didn't happen. It never seemed right.

Why?

Jones: We didn't want to do it. Simonon: It's a better story at the end of the day that we didn't get back together. We saved all that time and effort by not reforming. It seems like we would have squandered what we'd achieved by reforming. Why do people get together? Why do bands reform? Oh, they're good mates. Well, that's nice. It's usually because of a financial situation that has to be adhered to. Basically, everyone's broke. Jones: Our band is an idea as well. It kind of said, "You can do this." We can say all this now in retrospect and sort of understand it. When we did it, we just did it instinctively with no thought of future significance.

Does the world need a band like the Clash today?

Jones: There's not much going on, is there?

Canadians star in Bob Dylan's new music video

Like a Rolling Stone.

CMT Canada host Paul McGuire and the Property Brothers make an appearance in the unique approach to an old song

A few Canadians feature prominently in Bob Dylan's new interactive music video for Like a Rolling Stone, which premiered online Tuesday.

Identical twins Drew and Jonathan Scott, better known as the stars of the W Network show Property Brothers, and CMT Canada host Paul McGuire appear on two of the 16 virtual TV channels that users can flip through while Dylan's song plays.

On each channel, the characters on screen lip sync the lyrics to Like a Rolling Stone. The shows on the channels include specially shot versions of Pawn Stars, The Price is Right, Property Brothers, a parody of The Bachelor, faux news shows and a tennis match.

McGuire plays a TV anchor for a business news network, while the Scott brothers were told to mimic their show as much as possible for the music video.

"I asked what the idea was

Bob Dylan continues to innovate with his new music video. CONTRIBUTED and they said they wanted to try something new and interactive that's never been done before ... and show different personalities from pop culture and every different walk of life," said Jonathan Scott, who added that he was thrilled to participate and has Like a Rolling Stone on his MP3 player.

"They said that basically they wanted it to be like our real show except we're unaware that our mouths are moving to the lyrics of the song, so they didn't want us playing it up or consciously singing the song."

While they knew most of the lyrics to the classic song — or at least they thought they had them right — Drew Scott said lip syncing them wasn't easy.

"The hard thing is the way Bob Dylan sings, the cadence is different and the rhythm is really different. So to line up our lips was such a tough thing to do," he said of his turn.

Chris Brown kicked out of anger management for throwing a rock

Chris Brown has been thrown out of his Malibu rehab facility after he "flew into a violent rage" and threw a rock through his mother's car window following a family therapy session, according to TMZ.

The troubled R&B star has now been sentenced to 90 days in a different live-in anger management facility. Brown, who was most recently arrested for a brawl outside a Washington, D.C., hotel, was at the first facility for two weeks before the incident. The judge overseeing the case did not decide to revoke his probation.

Harry Styles

Are Harry and Kendall a thing? Don't expect him to deny it

Harry Styles is prompting new dating rumours after being spotted taking Kendall Jenner to dinner in L.A. Wednesday night, according to US Weekly. Styles drove them to dinner at Craig's restaurant in West Hollywood, Jenner seated beside him in his SUV.

While it's not clear if Styles is actually dating the 18-year-old, he has made his feelings on high-profile relationships known. "I don't want to be one of those people that complains about the rumours," he recently told the British edition of GQ magazine.

"I never like it when a celebrity goes on Twitter and says, 'This isn't true!' It is what it is. The only time it gets really annoying is that if you get into a relationship and you get into a place where you really like someone and then things are being written in the papers that affect them and how they see you. Then it can get annoying."

OUR TAKE ON THE WORLD OF CELEBRITIES

The Word

Don't get close for the camera, Will

PAT HEALY
Metro World News in New York City

This is hilarious. Check out Will Smith trying really, really hard not to put his arm around Margot Robbie in this photo call for their new film Focus in Buenos Aires, Argentina on Wednesday.

It makes sense. After all, the two co-stars were the subject of intense media speculation last month after they reportedly had a steamy romp in a photo booth at a party. "Once they pulled the curtain back to take the pictures, they let their inhibitions run wild, laughing, hugging and nuzzling each other in the dark," a source told Star.

So now Smith, the professional he is, knows if any other forthcoming gossip about his marriage or his "nuzzling" come to light, media outlets will use any photo they can find of Robbie and him together. Smart man.

Aaron Carter

The party's over: Aaron Carter is bankrupt

Uh-oh. Aaron Carter joins Toni Braxton, Teresa Giudice, MC Hammer, Kim Basinger and other fallen stars who have filed for bankruptcy. In legal docs acquired by TMZ, the former teen star lists his assets as $8,232.16 US. Which isn't going to come close to his liabilities, which total $2,204,854, with $1,368,140 owed to the IRS.

And this factoid may make you feel better about your paycheck: Aaron lists his average monthly income at $1,998.75. So, hey! You might not be able to ever retire, but neither will Aaron Carter.

Morrissey takes aim at Pippa's shooting party

Morrissey is not pleased with Pippa Middleton's recent hunting trip, to put it mildly. The singer and animal rights activist let off a lengthy blog post going after several high-profile hunters, taking aim specifically at the Middletons.

"On Oct. 5, the Daily Mail newspaper gave us all an 'amusing' report of thick-wit Pippa Middleton laughing as she stood over 50 birds shot dead by her friends and herself after a 'busy day's shooting,'" he writes. "The sick face of modern Britain, Pippa Middleton will kill deer, boar, birds — any animal struggling to live or that gets in her socialite way."

"This is because her sister is, of course, Kate, who herself became 'royal' simply by answering the telephone at the right time, and this association allows Pippa's 'kill, kill, kill' mentality to be smilingly endorsed by the British print media, to which only the mentally deficient could join in with the laughter."

Dan's advice for world-weary celebs? It's time to stop over-sharing

Daniel Radcliffe has some simple advice for celebrities who are tired of having their privacy invaded: Stop sharing so much. "I don't have Twitter and I don't have Facebook and I think that makes things a lot easier," he tells Sky News. "Because if you go on Twitter and tell everybody what you're doing moment to moment and then claim you want a private life, then no one is going to take that request seriously."

Add a cheesy side of Canadiana to dinner

Garlic Cheddar Biscuits. This delicious side dish is made with Canadian cheese. Which one? The choice is all yours

For a twist, substitute drained chopped pickled jalapenos or chives for the green onion.

1. Preheat the oven to 450 F (230 C). Line a large baking sheet with parchment paper.

2. In a large bowl combine the flour, baking powder, cream of tartar, sugar and salt. Using a pastry blender or two knives, cut in butter until crumbly. Stir in cheese and green onions. Slowly add the milk, stirring with a fork, until the batter reaches a soft dough consistency.

3. On a lightly floured surface, knead dough gently 3 to 4 times until it holds together. Roll out to 3/4-inch (2 cm) thickness. Cut into squares. Place at least 2 inches (5 cm) apart on prepared baking sheet.

4. Topping: In a small bowl, combine melted butter and garlic powder; brush biscuits with half of the mixture.

5. Bake 12 mins. or until starting to brown. Brush with remaining butter mix. Bake an additional 3 mins. or until golden brown. Best served warm. MEAGHAN THORNHILL OF HARBOUR-FRONT HOLSTEINS & JEZEBEL JERSEYS IN ANTIGONISH, N.S./ DAIRY FARMERS OF CANADA (MILKCALENDAR.CA)

Even with most wine aficionados plugging into the Internet for the bulk of their liquid knowledge, there's still a place in this world for some hard copy.

Just in time for Christmas, the newly released Canadian Wineries (Firefly Books, $29.95) by Tony Aspler, with photographs by Jean-François Bergeron, is the book Canadian wine fans have been waiting for.

Focusing on more than 60 wineries — from British Columbia's Mission Hill all the way to Nova Scotia's Jost Vineyards — it's a lovingly crafted collection of stories and images that will make even the most jaded sommelier excited to visit these vineyards and drink their wines.

B.C.'s Sandhill Estate is included in the collection and its 2011 Cabernet Merlot ($17.49 to $21.99) is available just about everywhere. Dark, rich and layered with varietal fruit, it's a mouthful of local juice that pairs perfectly with meatier, winter-inspired menus.

The engine driving our vibrant national wine culture is our own wines, and if you're looking for a great guide to the excitement, Canadian Wineries is it. PRICES REFLECT THE RANGE ACROSS THE COUNTRY. SOME PRODUCTS MAY NOT BE AVAILABLE IN ALL PROVINCES.

Swipe through your potential partners on Tinder, but be classy. HANDOUT

Getting a Tinder date not a swipe dream

Helpful tips. Focus on your profile pic, don't come on too strong. Use it as a launching pad to meet that special someone

RICHARD PECKETT
Metro World News

It's the dating app that'll have your on-screen lust life swiped into action. Here's our guide to meeting the person behind the profile pic.

Profile pictures –

Don't mis-sell yourself

Frankly, group shots are irritating. You're selling yourself, not your mates – so your first image should be a headshot and nothing too distorted and artsy. No abs shots, guys, this isn't for the cover of Men's Health. Remember: people are flicking through photos at a rate worthy of R.S.I. (repetitive strain injury) so make 'em stop with a flirty face or power pose – and yes, pouting does work girls as long as you've got the lips for it.

Bio – Peppy, not prosaic

On a site where the sole focus is on the superficial, the bio can seem kind of redundant. Keep it down to a few helpful hints about you – but don't expect the furious finger flicker to take any notice of it. Girls: if you're tall (over 5-foot-10), include your height, unless you're after a Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes situation. Lastly, any quirky facts (Burlesque dancer) or particular passions can be a great way to start a convo.

Openers – Don't come on too strong, bunny boiler

Unless you're a condemned man, don't profess your love over Tinder. Conversely, save the dirty talk for a hook-up site: "You absolute babe :) I would love to totally wreck you x". You're not talking to a sex-crazed avatar, so kick off with something that you might actually say to a real person, like "Hi, how are you? What did you get up to over the weekend?"

Seal the deal – Get that date down

OK, the Tinder texting is sparking and you wanna meet up with the person behind the profile pic. Ask for their number, and if they're a bit nervy, send yours first and make friends over Facebook. That way, the potential love interest can get an idea of your social life and decide whether they want to be part of your weekends in a torture dungeon.

First date – Play it cool

People have a tendency to over-think the first date scenario but when it comes to a

Tinder 101

- It's a dating app, not a sex app.

- It's free on a smartphone.

- The app connects to Facebook and accesses your friends, though it doesn't broadcast that you're on Tinder.

- Your 'About' section, if you have one, will also appear on Tinder.

- You can only choose profile pictures from your Facebook page.

- Swipe right to like and left to pass.

- Get a match (you've both swiped right on each other) and the Tinder icon turns blue. Now you can chat or, as the game says, "Keep Playing".

TINDER TALK

- Men, a.k.a. 'Tinmen'
- Girls, a.k.a. 'Tindettes'
- 'Blueing' – you've got a match blind date of sorts, it's best to keep it simple. Drinks and chat is a reliable option.

Side. Roasted Squash and Beets with Creamed Garlic

Ingredients

- 1 medium butternut squash, peeled, seeded and cut into 1/2-inch cubes (about 4 cups)
- 4 large beets, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch cubes (about 4 cups)
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- Salt and ground black pepper
- 3/4 cup heavy cream
- 24 cloves garlic, peeled
- 3 tbsp chopped fresh thyme

1. Heat the oven to 400 F.

2. Spread the squash and beets on a rimmed baking sheet. Drizzle with the olive oil and toss to coat. Season with salt and black pepper. Roast for 40 minutes, or until tender and browned, stirring every so often.

3. Meanwhile, make the creamed garlic. In a small saucepan over medium heat, combine the cream and the garlic. Bring to a boil, then lower the heat to just below a simmer. There should be just occasional bubbles in the cream. Cook for 45 to 50 minutes, or until the garlic is very tender. Mash the garlic with a fork in the cream, or transfer everything to a blender and purée until smooth. Stir in the thyme and season with salt and black pepper.

4. Serve the roasted squash and beets drizzled with the garlic cream. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Begin a new holiday chapter

Most families have a Christmas tradition or two that they look forward to sharing together year after year.

Traditions draw us closer together and allow us to slow down and enjoy the season.

Reading Christmas short stories together is free, meaningful and gives a slight pause to each day of the hustle and bustle that comes with the holiday season.

Begin on Dec. 1 and read a story each night until Christmas. You may want to plan ahead by having each family member choose a favourite holiday story.

You can borrow some from your local library, download them or listen to audio stories.

Make story time special by lighting some candles, or gathering the family around the Christmas tree. Make some apple cider or hot chocolate and have a small treat like cookies or shortbread to go with your hot drink.

You will be surprised at how much your family will look forward to this quiet time with each other and you may even have some wonderful conversations during or after reading these moments together.

Don't let the eggnog derail your career path

Office holiday parties.

Be on your best behaviour when you gather with co-workers

JANE DOUCET
For Metro

Ah, the annual office holiday party. Perhaps people have been on their best behaviour at the parties you have attended, but things can go south quickly, especially if alcohol flows freely.

If that happens this year — if you want to keep your career on the fast track — it's wise to keep your inhibitions in check.

"Employers are responsible for the safety of their employees, even at an office party, and they have a legal obligation to take appropriate disciplinary action against anyone who goes overboard in terms of sexual harassment, insubordination or discrimination," said Susan Thompson-Graham, the head instructor of the advanced diploma program in human resource management at the Nova Scotia Community College in Halifax.

Here are Thompson-Graham's tips for how to not ruin your career at the party:

- Don't skip the shindig. You may not want to go, but it's one night of the whole year, and if you don't attend, you could be ostracized at work for a while.

- Drink responsibly. Let management set the pace for how much alcohol is consumed. If everyone overindulges, ensure that you also consume vast quantities of water and food. "You don't want to be the office hangover joke the next day," Thompson-Graham said. "And do I even need to say it? No illegal drugs."

- Dress appropriately. "It's not Halloween, so no sexy pirate, sexy nurse or sexy devil outfits," Thompson-Graham said.

- Keep romance at bay. Although many people do meet their significant other at work, don't make out on the dance floor under the glare of the disco ball. "Instead, make arrangements for a rendezvous after the party," Thompson-Graham said.

- Observe social media etiquette. That means no texting — you need to look like you want to be there. And no posting "memorable moments" from the party on Facebook or Instagram, especially if your company has a social media policy.

- Express your gratitude. Thank the host and organizers for their hard work. "I often hear managers say, 'I do this for my employees and don't get a single thank you.' Be remembered for being the one who took the time to do so," Thompson-Graham said.

Shopping tips. How to trim your budget

Here are some tips to trim your holiday shopping budget:

Extend your holiday shopping budget with coupons. Whether shopping in-store or online, there is no excuse for buying anything without first checking if there is a coupon available. Thanks to modern technology, the hours spent clipping coupons are gone. Using coupons online and through apps is now easier than ever with sites like RetailMeNot.ca, a Canadian digital couponing site.

Find hidden money. Clean out your wallet and scour your junk drawer — we all have gift cards hiding somewhere. Cash them in this holiday season and keep your money in your pocket. Another great way to save cash is to take inventory of your credit card rewards and trade them in for gifts.

Wrap it up for less. The cost of wrapping paper, ribbons and bows can add up fast. Consider using what you already have to save some money and make an even bigger impression. For wrapping, try using brown paper bags, newspaper, magazines or even old maps. For the final touch, try twine or yarn and include outdoor elements such as a sprig of evergreen or a pinecone to make a stunning and inexpensive presentation.

Get free gift tags. You don't need to buy gift tags or even some holiday decorations. Instead, print your own using free templates that can be found on Pinterest. Simply search "free holiday printables," print and enjoy.

Go semi-homemade. With all the holiday parties this time of year, purchasing host gifts can add up quickly. Try buying inexpensive gifts (less than $10) and adding your own personal touch. For example, an inexpensive bottle of wine can be personalized by covering the label and including a personal festive message.

Pour a signature cocktail. If you are hosting a holiday party, don't bother buying a holiday supply of pricey wines on which you wouldn't normally splurge. A 750ml bottle of wine pours five or six glasses, whereas the same-sized bottle of rum, vodka or gin will make at least 16 drinks if mixed as a cocktail.

Plan a holiday swap party.

Tis the season for entertaining, so why not plan a party with a purpose? Get a group of girls together for a holiday swap where each guest is invited to bring their extra wrapping supplies, decorations and even holiday wardrobe they may not want anymore. Swapping and sharing what you already have can be a huge money saver.

Know the best time to shop. A little known secret is that the best time to shop a big sale is actually 6 p.m. the day before the sale starts. Often, retailers will already have their registers programmed with the next day's sale price, allowing you to beat the crowds, and get the best selection on the items you want. METRO NEWS SERVICES

Grey Cup

Frostbitten Ticats had 'great time'
out in the snow

Several Tiger-Cats emerged from their first Grey Cup practice with frostbite from frigid Mosaic Stadium in Regina.

But Paul Osbaldiston, Hamilton's assistant special teams and kicking coach, said the team still relished the championship game workout.

"I loved playing in the snow," the former longtime Hamilton kicker said Thursday at a media breakfast. "I saw it as something different and fun and a challenge. Our guys had a great time out there (Wednesday). We ended up with a couple of frostbite situations. But the guys didn't complain, they practised hard."

Osbaldiston said the frostbite was nothing serious "but it tells you how cold it is."

Wednesday's temperature was listed at minus-16 but it felt like minus-28. It was even chillier Thursday morning at minus-21, which felt like minus-31. The forecast is improved for game-day Sunday with a daytime high of zero, feeling like minus-five. Kickoff is 5:30 p.m. local time.

Riders' Bagg refuses to let his spirits sag

Grey Cup. After overcoming numerous injuries, receiver has a shot at career-defining moment on Sunday

For a moment, it looked like Rob Bagg's dream of winning the CFL's biggest prize was finally over.

In an Aug. 17 game against the Montreal Alouettes, the Saskatchewan Roughriders wide receiver went out on a blocking assignment and went down in a heap, clutching his left knee.

Bagg left the field in tears, seeming to signal the end of a CFL career that barely managed to get started.

But two days later video emerged of Bagg running the stairs at Mosaic Stadium, and not even two weeks after that he was back in the lineup for the Labour Day Classic, making one catch for seven yards as the Riders downed the Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Bagg finished the 2013 regular season fifth on the Riders with 430 yards receiving, and will have the chance Sunday to help his team finish first when Saskatchewan hosts the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the 101st Grey Cup at Mosaic Stadium.

"Getting back on the field is one thing but, really, your main driving factor is you want to be able to tell your kids and grandkids that you were the best in the CFL one year," he said.

Bagg will be in uniform Sunday for his first championship game since 2009, when Saskatchewan lost to Montreal

Peer evaluation

"I don't really know what keeps him going at times."

Roughriders receiver Weston Dressler, on teammate Rob Bagg.

after a too-many-men penalty cost them the game with no time on the clock.

For Bagg, that loss was compounded further by the broken collarbone he suffered following a hit from Chip Cox late in the fourth quarter.

"I was definitely aware of the situation and, if anything, it made the injury more painful because it was just two defeats rather than one," said Bagg.

"But I never really think about that injury. I think about the opportunity that we screwed up."

His first shot at redemption was derailed late in the 2010 season when he tore the ACL in his right knee, causing him to miss the Riders' playoff drive and loss in the Grey Cup rematch with Montreal.

Bagg missed all of 2011 after reinjuring the ligament prior to the next season's training camp and played only three games in 2012 before tearing up his other knee, which also required season-ending surgery.

"He's definitely worked harder than anyone I've ever met in this sport," said fellow Riders receiver Weston Dressler.

"He's put in the time, he's put in effort to get himself back on the field on separate occasions, many different times. So just to see him out there and get a chance to play in this game again, it's nice to see that." THE CANADIAN PRESS

"I recommend Vitamin C and Lysine for Heart Health"

W. Gifford-Jones, MD

Fourteen years ago following my own coronary attack I decided to follow the research of Dr. Linus Pauling, Professor Williams Stehbens and Dr. Sydney Bush and take high doses of vitamin C plus lysine. I am turning 90 soon and I am glad I did!

Dr. Linus Pauling, two-time Nobel Prize winner, was ignored for reporting that large amounts of vitamin C and lysine are needed to prevent coronary attacks. Twenty-five years ago Pauling reported that animals make vitamin C but humans do not and must supplement this important vitamin. Lysine must also be supplemented.

Vitamin C is required to manufacture healthy collagen, the glue that holds coronary cells together, just like mortar is needed for bricks. Lysine, like steel rods in cement, makes collagen stronger. Pauling claimed it takes a mere 10 milligrams of vitamin C to prevent scurvy, but several thousand to prevent heart attack.

Dr. William Stehbens, Professor of Anatomy at Auckland University in New Zealand emphasized that coronary arteries are under more pressure than any other arteries in the body. After all, they're situated in the heart's muscle, not in the big toe. Moreover they're under constant pressure while the heart beats 100,000 times every 24 hours, or 37 million times a year, and 2.2 billion times if you live to 70 years of age.

Without sufficient vitamin C and lysine this constant pounding causes minute cracks in collagen, resulting in blood clots and possible death, or a weakened artery can break, causing a stroke.

Dr. Sydney Bush, an English researcher, has now proven that vitamin C and lysine can reverse atherosclerosis. Bush took retinal photographs, then started his patients on high doses of vitamin C and lysine. One year later new pictures showed atherosclerosis had regressed in retinal arteries.

Now you can take the right combination of vitamin C and lysine in a powder form I developed called Medi-C Plus™. The dosage for Medi-C Plus is one flat scoop with breakfast and the evening meal, mixed in water or juice.

Two shades of Grey unite on Sunday

DAVE LANGFORD
dave.langford@metronews.ca

When it comes to professional football in this country, there really are only two shades of grey.

As in Grey Cup.

First, the segment of our population with the absolute love of the Canadian game at all levels. For them, the CFL is almost a way of life and these people dominate in three provinces — Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta — and exist in various regional pockets across the rest of our country.

This group loves three-down football, all things Canadian, movement in the backfield and someone actually gaining points when they miss 30-yard field goals.

The second group is not as obvious, but every bit as strong in their beliefs about the way football should be played. They are NFL fans and they are all across the country, dominating in some provinces and no worse than 50 per cent of the football enthusiasts in many others.

Roughriders fans celebrate winning the West final in Calgary.
LARRY MACDOUGAL/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Four-down football is their cup of Red Rose tea and betting on the game is part of their persona. They like the fact the best athletes are playing their game and relish the absolute television and online saturation, allowing them many more entry points.

But there is one day when both sides unite and become one — a special Sunday each year in late November. The confluence of the two streams on Grey Cup Sunday is a beautiful thing. And this year more than the rest.

That is because the two smallest markets — Hamilton, represented by the Ticats, and Regina, by the Roughriders — are facing each other for the first time since 1989. And the game is in Regina, only the third time the city has played host to the event.

The pro-CFL and pro-NFL camps co-exist on Grey Cup Sunday for obvious reasons — both love football, both love Canada and there is nothing more Canadian than the Grey Cup.

But a Grey Cup in Regina is not the Grey Cup in the Rogers Centre in Toronto or the Olympic Stadium in Montreal or BC Place in Vancouver. It is far superior, something very special.

It is an outdoor spectacle played in Canada's version of the "frozen tundra" where the elements will be in play all day and the fans would not have it any other way.

No matter how many downs are in play.

Riding high under grey skies

It's not difficult to see the Saskatchewan Roughriders celebrating their fourth Grey Cup championship Sunday night. They're 5 1/2-point favourites and have home-field advantage. But of course there's a reason they play the games. Here are some key points to watch. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tiger-Cats

QB Henry Burris passed for 371 yards and three TDs in the Tiger-Cats' 36-24 East final win over the Argonauts indoors at Rogers Centre last weekend. Yet not only will Burris have to battle the elements at Mosaic Stadium, but also a Riders defence that was third in the CFL in sacks with 57. Hamilton's offensive line led the league in sacks allowed with 65.

TM
Henry Burris
THE CANADIAN PRESS

Defence

Hamilton's defence will face a tall order trying to contain a Saskatchewan offence that not only boasts a solid ground attack but a receiving corps with three 1,000-yard performers. The Riders' offensive line is one of the CFL's best.

Kent Austin

THE CANADIAN PRESS

X-Factor

There's no denying the marvellous job Kent Austin has done in his first season as Hamilton's vice-president of football operations, general manager and head coach. After a disappoint 6-12 season in 2012, Austin went to great lengths to increase Hamilton's talent base. But it's not a stretch to suggest by reaching the Grey Cup they've over-achieved and exceeded expectations.

Saskatchewan Roughriders

Offence

Running back Kory Sheets is the biggest concern for the Tiger-Cats. The Riders were second in CFL rushing, averaging 128.8 yards per game, and with Sunday's weather forecast calling for a low temperature of minus-12 C with 15 km/h winds, the ability to run the football will become very important.

Kory Sheets
GETTY IMAGES

Defence

On the other side of the ball, the Riders boast a rugged, tenacious defence that was the CFL's toughest to score against. Saskatchewan allowed a league-low 22.1 points per game and last weekend against Calgary forced seven turnovers.

Geroy Simon
THE CANADIAN PRESS

X-Factor

The Riders have the advantage in experience and were built to be here. GM Brendan Taman bolstered his leadership acquiring R Geroy Simon from B.C. and landing DB Dwight Anderson and DL Ricky Foley and John Chick in free agency. All four are Grey Cup champions. It's also QB Darian Durant's third career Grey Cup. The first two were losses, but Durant has been solid so far in the playoffs. Pick: Roughriders Long underwear in green, rubber ducks with tiny green football helmets painted on them and a foam helmet that looks like a watermelon.

There is apparently no end to the list of things bearing a Saskatchewan Roughriders logo, and football fans flocking to Regina for the 101st Grey Cup on Sunday can't wait to get their hands on the merchandise.

Riders vice-president of sales Steve Mazurak says Saskatchewan sells as much merchandise as all the other CFL teams combined.

The Riders have had more than $7 million in merchandise sales in each of the last four years, with sales in the 2010 centennial year reaching $10 million.

But Mazurak says it's too early to know if sales this year will pass that $10-million mark, adding that might depend on the outcome of the game Sunday. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Champs turn Jets' best aside

NHL. Blackhawks let Winnipeg back in game but still pull out win

Marian Hossa celebrated his return to the lineup with the winner in the third period Thursday night as his Chicago Blackhawks stumbled but didn't fall and downed the Winnipeg Jets 6-3.

Patrick Kane, Brandon Saad, Jonathan Toews and Ben Smith also scored for Chicago (15-4-4), who have won all three of their games against the Jets this season. Patrick Sharp had an empty netter to end the game.

Andrew Ladd, Keaton Ellerby and Dustin Byfuglien scored for the Jets (10-11-3).

The first period was all Blackhawks, who seldom let the Jets have the puck.

Jets fans picked Chicago's Kane as a target for their boos but he responded with a power-play goal late in the period, thanks to a tripping penalty awarded to Winnipeg's Evander Kane.

ping a lot of pucks, Ondrej Pavelec didn't get much of a look at the shot through heavy traffic in front of the Winnipeg net. The Jets were outshot 12-2 in the period.

Saad's one-timer from the slot made it 2-0 just over three minutes into the second.

But then the game took a sharp left turn for the Hawks, as the Jets scored two goals in 29 seconds to tie it up.

Bryan Little fed Ladd, whose wrist shot beat Corey Crawford's glove hand at 3:22, and Ellerby used Winnipeg's first power play of the game to score his first as a Jet from the point at 3:51.

Toews put the Blackhawks back in the lead with a 4-on-4 goal just past the 11-minute mark, beating out defenceman Toby Enstrom and slipping the puck past Pavelec from the side of the crease.

But the Hawks then served up a 5-on-3 opportunity that Byfuglien cashed in at 13:30, with Winnipeg's third shot on Crawford within seconds, to even it up again.

There was a heavy police presence at the game but it wasn't because of the rivalry between the two Central Division teams. Prime Minister Stephen Harper was in attendance.

NHL. Amnesia ails Maple Leafs in loss to Predators

Randy Carlyle didn't think his Toronto Maple Leafs could take much from their October win over the Predators in Nashville.

It was so long ago it might as well have been ancient history. That was evident Thursday night when so much that went right for the Leafs last time around failed them in a 4-2 loss to the Predators at Air Canada Centre.

After jumping out to a lead, the Leafs abandoned much of what made them 8-2-0 at home going in. Defence in their own zone was spotty, and that, coupled with penalties, proved to be their undoing.

Craig Smith scored twice for the Predators, while rookie defenceman Seth Jones and Matt Cullen each had a goal. That overshadowed Peter Holland's first goal with the Leafs since being acquired from the Anaheim Ducks.

Toronto goaltender Jonathan Bernier, who shut out the Predators last month and has dominated them during his NHL career, made 24 saves on 28 shots but didn't allow a soft goal until the third period when the game had all but slipped away. Nashville rookie Marek Mazanec made 24 saves for the victory.

Carlyle said Thursday morning that so much hockey had been played since the Leafs and Predators met Oct. 10. In the present, his focus was to "cure some of the ailments that have been present."

That didn't go so well. Again the Leafs were outshot — 28-26 after starting the game up 11-5 — and they couldn't put together much sustained attack time or opportunistic offence after Holland scored 5:48 in with a perfect shot over Mazanec's left shoulder.

Nazem Kadri scored the other Leafs goal with under five minutes to play in the third period to make it 4-2.

Subway Super Series

Goalie Nalimov leads Russians past OHL

Ivan Nalimov made 41 saves as Russia earned its first win of the Subway Super Series with a 5-2 victory against the Ontario Hockey League on Thursday in Oshawa, Ont.

Nalimov was especially good in the second period when he let in both goals but held on despite the OHL outshooting the Russians 20-6.

The win comes after Russia lost twice to the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League earlier this week.

Sergei Tolchinsky, Alexei Bereglazov, Ildar Shiksatdarov, Vladimir Butuzov and Vladimir Tkachyov scored for Russia.

Kerby Rychel and Brock McGinn replied for the OHL, while Matt Murray allowed four goals on 21 shots.

Tolchinsky and Bereglazov gave Russia a 2-0 lead with goals on just seven shots in the first period.

Rychel scored at 8:09 of the second and McGinn tied the game just over a minute later.

But Shiksatdarov put Russia ahead once again short-handed before the period was over.

That set up third-period insurance goals by Butuzov and Tkachyov.

CFL. Cornish doubles up league's top honours

Jon Cornish has joined an exclusive club.

The Calgary Stampeders running back was the big winner at the CFL awards banquet Thursday night, being named the league's outstanding player and top Canadian. It's the second straight year Cornish was honoured as the league's top Canuck but he's the first Canadian since 1978 to capture the outstanding player honour.

The last Canadian winner of the award was Ottawa tight end Tony Gabriel. Cornish joins Gabriel and legendary Rough Riders quarterback Russ Jackson, a 77-year-old Hamilton native, as the only Canadians to claim the CFL's top individual honour. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Manning takes on Brady-led offence in flux

NFL. Matchup of era's marquee QBs slated for Sunday night

Tom Brady and Peyton Manning have six MVP awards between them in the regular season. They have three more in the Super Bowl.

On Sunday night, two of the NFL's greatest quarterbacks will meet for the 14th time. But there's a new twist.

One of them is mired in the middle of the league's passer ratings instead of being near the top.

Brady and his rebuilt receiving corps have suffered through growing pains while Manning's deep group of pass catchers

Patriots quarterback Tom Brady calls a play against the Panthers on Monday. STREETER LECKA/GETTY IMAGES helped the Denver Broncos (9-1) become the NFL's best of offence going into the prime-time game against the New England Patriots (7-3).

So Brady must find a way to outscore a team averaging 39.8 points per game. "Our offence right now is very different than it's ever been," he said. "Everything that we do has a different feel to it. We've had so many new players."

Manning threw seven touchdown passes in the season opener and is the league's second highest rated passer. Brady didn't reach that total until his fourth game and was tied for 18th in the rankings after Monday night's 24-20 loss to the Carolina Panthers.

Twelve years after their first matchup, Brady is 9-4 against Manning with 23 touchdown passes and 12 interceptions. Manning has thrown for 27 TDs and 19 interceptions in those games. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

♈ Aries

March 21 - April 20

As the Sun moves into your fellow Fire sign of Sagittarius today, your confidence will come flooding back and you will wonder why you doubted yourself. If you like the idea of travelling, now is the time to pack a bag and just go.

♉ Taurus

April 21 - May 21

Money matters will be on your mind over the next few days and you must do whatever it takes to make sure your cash stays in your pocket. Don't let anyone fool you into believing you can get rich quick.

♊ Gemini

May 22 - June 21

You like to get your way and most of the time you do but today, let the other guy win. You will need other people's co-operation over the next few weeks to get what you need, so give them what they need too.

♋ Cancer

June 22 - July 23

Slow down before you burn yourself out. That is the message of the planets today and if you are wise you'll heed it. Not even a go-getting Cancer can keep up this pace forever.

♌ Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

You may want to get back at people who have let you down but is it worth the effort? No it is not. Within a matter of hours you will have more important things to take care of. Let it go.

♍ Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

Loved ones will be touchy today, so don't say or do anything that might make them even more angry. If you poke, they'll poke back harder.

♎ Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

A more light-hearted phase begins for you today as the Sun changes signs. Money, work and family worries won't disappear immediately but you won't have sleepless nights.

♏ Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

The Sun leaves your birth sign today but you haven't missed your chance to make your mark. On the contrary, over the next few weeks you will get the chance to build on foundations that have been laid.

♐ Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

As the Sun moves into your birth sign today, you have every right to follow your heart. Life is too short to worry what other people think. Just do what comes naturally and enjoy every moment.

♑ Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

There is so much that needs changing in your life but where do you start? The most obvious place is inside your head. Make clear what it is you most desire and how you can get it.

♒ Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

You may be desperate to make a good impression on colleagues but you are more likely to do so if you take on just one task at a time. Focus on what really matters.

♓ Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

The Sun crosses the career angle of your chart today. Among other things, that means you will get the chance to show what you can do. Know what you are aiming for.
